A Peripatetic Wooing.

Kelise was having thoughts. That they were not pleasant thoughts, she guessed by the hurry with which she donned her tan slacks and close brown vesting, but she slipped out of the house, she hurried down brilliantly lighted Broadway, hoping that the new experience of being alone, unaccompanied, unprotected, amid the rush of life on all sides, might divert her mind. She was halted at last by a man with a megaphone. He was shouting: "All aboard for Chinatown! Right this way. Tickets two dollars. All aboard for Chinatown!"

She looked up at the huge, ugly "rubberneck wagon," not fairly transformed into a bower of beauty of red, white and blue electric lights and Chinese lanterns bobbing in the chill breeze. It seemed to offer succor from the instant, uncomfortable thoughts at the back of her brain. The old woman in its brave array held some of the allurements of fairyland and its happy irresponsibility, and on the spur of the moment she whipped out her purse.

Her cheeks were burning, her breath was coming in gasps, as she came into the little square marking the one time wickedest place in New York. All at once she felt that she was being followed. Quick, light footsteps were coming behind her, were keeping pace with hers, and terror clutched her heart. A few drunken men sprawled on the sidewalk benches. To return was impossible. She could never find the "rubberneck" party. There was nothing to do but keep on as best she could.

She emerged from the park ready to drop with exhaustion and was obliged to slow down to get her breath. For relief she found the steps were stopped, and no one was in sight. She went on and on through the better streets of the wholesale district and at last saw the twinkling lights of surface cars ahead. She reached for her purse. It was gone!

She stopped stock still on a corner, frozen with horror. Alone at 11 o'clock at night on a deserted street, with no money and home miles away! The ill of her purse pained her. She showed up in the twinkling lights of surface cars ahead. She reached for her purse. It was gone!

KILLED IN THE SPORTING FIELD.

Beautiful Daughter of English Earl.

Shot by Her Husband.

Lady Dorothy Outhbert, the daughter of the 5th Earl of Stamford, and one of the most popular and beautiful women in society, has been killed on a hunting trip in the Northamptonshire.

She was the victim of the accidental discharge of a gun carried by her husband.

Barely four years have passed since Lady Dorothy's marriage to Captain James Outhbert.

Lady Dorothy Outhbert was only 20 years of age. Captain Outhbert, although only two years older than his wife, has had a distinguished military career. He served with the Royal Scots in the South African war, and gained his D.S.O. He was a crack shot, and in 1903 was champion revolver shot in the army.

The scene of the tragedy was Robson's Wood, near Bradford Castle, the lovely home of the young couple in Northamptonshire.

Captain Outhbert was out with a small party for pleasant shooting. Lady Dorothy traveled to the scene of the shooting in a motor-car for the purpose of joining the party at luncheon. She was walking by her husband's side. Suddenly a keeper, who was walking in front, heard the report of a gun.

Turning round he was horrified to see Lady Outhbert lying on the ground covered with blood and her husband prostrate beside her. Captain Outhbert was in a dead faint, and did not know for some hours afterwards what was at once apparent to the keeper and the young woman.

At the coroner's inquest the jury returned a verdict of accidental death. They added that they had been no negligence or carelessness on the part of Captain Outhbert.

When they were shot, the keeper, who was the coroner's witness, thought he looked haggard and pale, he was outwardly calm. His description of the accident was given briefly and in low tones.

Lady Dorothy, he said, was walking on his left, and was carrying his gun on his left shoulder. She was standing on the left side of the road, and was just raising his gun to fire at a pigeon among the trees on his left rear.

His fingers were cold at the time, Captain Outhbert explained, and his opinion was that he must have pulled the trigger before he knew he had fired. The gun had not been exploded, and it did not catch in his clothing.

LAUGHS AT ENGLAND.

British Disarmament Scheme Excites Hilarity of Teutons.

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's disarmament proposals excite hilarity among the Germans.

But the Premier's intention during Mr. Balfour's speech in the House yesterday, that it would be the suggestion of Mr. Balfour if Continental diplomats compared the disarmament of the Premier in peace with the statements made by Mr. Haldane and the Admiralty on British military efficiency, is regarded as an insult to the intelligence of German observers.

Nothing will shake German conviction that the long if British disarmament, its sole object is to limit the armament of Germany, or to increase the military power of the British.

No arguments will ever induce Germany to believe that the astute English really believe in such a scheme. The Premier's proposal is regarded as an insult to the intelligence of German observers.

THINGS MODISTIC.

Stiff Lined Corset With Dainty Shirts.

Waistless—Belted Bodice.

It is now the fashion to wear with any style of shirt waist a stiff turned down collar of hand embroidered linen, or of the latest fashion down the back, as waists almost invariably do.

This collar may be either pinned or buttoned to the collar band back and front, then being firmly tucked into a jeweled hair pin above the soft silk.

Young women who tramp abroad in all kinds of weather are wearing what are called bellows boots. The tongues of the bellows boots are stitched to the top all the way up, and the shoes are thoroughly impervious to water.

Among the prettiest of the new things seen at the Jewellers are the chateaux purses of silver shod or silver, with a strap of gold or silver, and ornamented with the owner's monogram set in her birthstones for luck.

Glove purses of silver shaped like a bonbon box and tiny enough to fit in the palm of one's hand are very smart. Although so small, they cost as much as the larger purses.

Little polka dots of linen set on a plain white linen handkerchief and whitehanded all round are among the new things seen.

The illustration shows a new Peter Pan suit for a small girl to be made up in summer materials. The only trimmings are a strip of embroidery down the front of the blouse and the neat turned back cuffs.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

The Wasp Waist Again Modish—Pongee in Smart Effects.

Sylphlike waists are again to figure in fashions. With the introduction of round skirts, no one will be surprised to learn this fact, for the two have been going together. There need be no tightening of the waist. Just a little padding in the fashion of the undergarments to prevent bulkiness is all.

STONING A TIGER.

The Punishment of a Man Eater That Was Caught in the Act.

Fifty years ago tigers were very common even in the high hills of western Tibet, writes C. A. Sherring in his account of that country. At the present time, however, owing to the increase of population and the general spread of civilization, they have become rare, and the appearance of a man eater who carried off a poor old woman on the slope of Chibia created consternation.

On the following day there were gathered together a hundred grim men, armed only with axes and stones, for they had not a gun among them.

Fortune favored the hunters, for the tiger was found asleep under a rock. At once each man dropped silently into the cover of the brushwood and piled a heap of stones near to his hand, while one of the most trusted of the party was commissioned to stalk to the top of the rock and drop a huge stone on the sleeping brute.

So well was the work done that the stone fell true on the tiger's back, and immediately, with a roar, the wounded beast sprang up, and seeing his enemies, who leaped from their cover, charged the lion.

But a hundred men, desperate as to consequences, the throwing stones might and main, are not to be awed or turned from their purpose lightly. The stones broke the tiger's teeth and went into his mouth, and he lay motionless a mass of wounds.

Turning, he tried to escape and took his pursuers up hill for a mile, but wherever he paused and whatever he did he could not escape the pitiless rain of missiles. The blow on his back, first given, effectively checked his speed, and finally, worn out, he came to lay under a great cliff.

The rest was easy. He was immediately beheaded, and the stones were showered on him, till he lay motionless and buried with redoubled energy. As he sank down the villagers rushed in and dispatched him with their axes.

A RHETORICAL TRIUMPH.

Sheridan's Speech in Connection With the Hastings Trial.

Answering a correspondent who asked about the speech of Sheridan in connection with the Warren Hastings trial, the London News says: "That immense rhetorical triumph was certainly not reported in the notes in question, for the Oude speech was not delivered during the trial. Sheridan pronounced it in the house of commons in the year before the trial in moving the Oude charge, and it was one of the articles of the impeachment."

"No speech recorded in our history has had such a reception. The entire house and all in the galleries visited the traditions of parliament and set a precedent that remains unfollowed by clapping furiously."

OUR BYLAWS.

There is evidently something wrong with Lacombe's bylaws. If any of them, seem to be workable. The "reform" Council was to fix up the bylaws and make them workable, and pledged themselves to do so. Up to date members of the council have only busied themselves by taking advantage of any little technical defect in the bylaws, and one of them, while quite aware of the intention of the bylaws respecting fire traps, and the building bylaw, has deliberately violated them. We refer to Councillor Skinner, who was sponsor for the "reform" league, and who was going to see that everything was done in the interests of the town.

It will be remembered that the old Queens building was moved and alterations commenced on same a couple of months ago. A permit is required for altering any building in the fire limits, and it happens that the bylaw governing this is all right. Instead of complying with the law, the work was proceeded with without a permit, and not until about fifteen days ago was a permit applied for. Then, although the kind of building allowed under the first limit by-law must be covered outside with at least iron or steel, we find Councillor Skinner building a seven foot frame shack between the Queens and Pratt's without even going to the trouble of applying for a permit.

For a gentleman who has the welfare of the town so much at heart, Councillor Skinner's actions since being elected are, to say the least, most extraordinary.

PERMANENCY.

One of the strong planks of the "reform league" council, it will no doubt be remembered, was permanency improvements, and we believe this plank was the one which pulled a great many votes. The Council is going a little too strong on permanency, however.

The people are beginning to kick at the permanent mud holes all along Barnett avenue, also the permanent loose boards and holes in sidewalks in various parts of the town.

The Council is evidently trying to live up to their "permanency" plank, but no doubt the citizens would overlook the crime if they bent the plank a little and fixed up the roads and walks.

The Advertiser's attempt to caricature the editor of this newspaper in his vile sheet, should have the censure of all law abiding citizens. We do not mind a person sticking to facts, but when he depicts us as having our both hands full of dollar bills he oversteps the mark. He should apologize at once, as several of our creditors are annoyed by us.

A BAD PRACTICE.

The practice of the town constable in employing small boys to capture animals to impound should be stopped at once. This practice has been severely condemned by every town in Canada, as it was found that young children, for the sake of the ten or fifteen cents given them by the pound keeper, would go so far as to liberate animals and drive them to pound. If our chief of police finds the duties of his office too much of a strain on him, we are sure the police committee will see that an assistant is appointed.

Conservatives Prepare.

A meeting of the provincial executive of the Conservative party in the Province of Alberta will be held at "Red Deer on Thursday next. Besides the officers of the executive and one representative from each electoral district, all Conservative members of the Dominion house from Alberta, the Conservative members of the Provincial legislature, and defeated candidates have been invited to be present and take part in the proceedings.

The object of the meeting is not to formulate any party platform but merely to consider the political situation throughout the province and to take steps for a more permanent organization of the party in Alberta. In all probability new officers of the executive will be elected.

Are They Afraid to Give Us a Show.

Western Globe, Lacombe, Alta.
Dear Sir:—In picking up your paper of June 11th, I see one of your leading articles is entitled "Agricultural Society." I see in looking over said article, that there have been some radical changes made in the prize lists. Now I will take issue with Mr. Craig on the hog question. I understand that it was through his advice that the Duroc-Jersey, the Duroc-Poland cross and Poland China, have been struck off the lists entirely, for your article states that Mr. Craig says we cannot raise them and compete with the U. S. corn belt hogs. Well, as I have said before, I will dispute the verdict of Mr. Craig. I will speak whereof I know. Some two weeks ago, I sold on the Lacombe market, the Duroc-Poland cross bred, which after coming through our most severe weather, averaged me 197 pounds at seven months old, and those pigs were fed just common Alberta barley and oats. I have fed lots of hogs in Nebraska on corn, and taking the cold weather we had into consideration I can put pound for pound on Alberta hogs as I could in Nebraska on a corn fed hog. Mr. Craig notwithstanding.

Your article says Mr. Craig says we cannot compete with the corn belt hog, if we have to import corn into Alberta. Well of all the rank nonsense, that statement stands out ahead of all the balance.

Import corn into Alberta, the land of great crops and superior quality; well it simply does not merit discussion. Mr. Craig states that the Government and experimental farms have been trying to induce the farmer to take up Mr. Bacon hog for fifteen years. Ye gods! just think of it! That thick hog has withstood a wonderful siege. The average everyday farmer, with his limited buildings and means, has found the thick, hard hog his best friend, his best money maker, and almost without exception where you find a Yankee farmer there you find his old friend, the hard hog. I take it Mr. Editor, that partly the cause of the scarcity of hogs in Alberta today is that the newcomers to Alberta, outside of the Yankee, have taken the advice of the experimental farms, and have taken to the bacon pig, and after a trial or two, were so badly bit that they have dropped hogs entirely and are simply raising grain.

Fifteen years fight against the hard hog, and now as they see the thick hog still standing on his old battle ground, they try a flanking movement, and induce the directors of the local fairs to shut off a little $3 or $5 premium. Well, Mr. Editor, the hard hog is like the Anglo Saxon, "The harder you throw him, the higher he will bounce." And again, the best advertisement you can give anything is to fight it hard, and thus draw people's attention to the scrap going on. I will ask you Mr. Editor which class of hogs made the best showing at the Lacombe fair last summer. Was it not the Duroc-Jersey, as shown by John Maurer, of Pleasant Valley? Were they not the center of attraction? Canucks, English, and all others admiring them. Mr. Editor, I will ask you if it would not have shown a broader view of the question if our fair board of directors had left the list as it was last year, and then gone them one better by offering a grand sweepstakes prize open to all breeds for the best money making hog on the grounds.

Mr. Editor does the board of directors think that a man will haul his pigs to town fifteen or twenty five miles for the paltry $5 premium, or does he rather not do it in a patriotic way, to show his friends from the States that we can do and raise as good a hard hog as Alberta, because they can in the corn belt. Mr. Craig notwithstanding, or do the powers that be recognize this fact and are afraid to give us a show.

Respectfully yours,
THOS. S. DAVIDSON,
Valley City, Alta.

The Hog That Pays

Editor Western Globe.
Dear Sir:—Kindly permit me to make a statement regarding an item I find in Globe under heading Agricultural Society, regarding hogs. I wish to state that the Society in cutting out the hard hog, (as Mr. Craig states, the government has been discouraging the raising of them for fifteen years) is discouraging the raising of the only profitable hog for the farmer. Also wish to say that it is a mistake when Mr. Craig says that the hard hog cannot be successfully raised in Alberta, because we do not raise corn to feed them. I consider the hog best adapted to this country, the hog that will weigh the most in the shortest time at the same price, and to show the farmers where they are at in this hog raising industry. I will say that at Toos you can get at present prices, the same price for a hog that weighs 250 pounds as you get for a hog that weighs 125 pounds, and if the Agricultural Societies of this country will not let you compete for prizes on your money making hogs raise them to sell, just the same, or you will find the hog raising business rather unprofitable generally. As I see it, the agricultural society is the product of the farmers, therefore let them all in. Very Respectfully, W. E. TEES.

Stock Growers Meet.

The Central Alberta Stock Grower's Association held their annual meeting in Erskine last Wednesday and Thursday most of the ranchers of the district being present, also many visitors and representatives of the Press, C. P. R. and buying firms.

The Camp was located on Root's lake about one mile from Erskine and was an ideal picnic ground. The committee in charge had made elaborate preparations for the comfort and pleasure of the guests and deserve the greatest credit for their successful efforts.

Dr. Rutherford, Vice President White and Supt. Niblock were unfortunately unable to attend but sent letters of regret. The non arrival of speakers before Wednesday night delayed the business till Thursday when the speaking commenced in a large pavilion on the shores of the lake.

Mr. Bergman of Erskine, read the address of welcome which was replied to by R. E. Fiske, of Hillsdown.

Geo. F. Root presented his address as President of the Association. He stated that during the past year the association had grown to a membership of 170, that C. S. and English cattle buyers had become interested in their doings, the C. P. R. had promised to give better shipping facilities and the ranchers had secured better prices for their cattle. He went on to make an exhaustive analysis of stock conditions in the principal exporting and importing countries of the world showing the aid given the cattle raising industry in different countries by the government and contrasting it with the lack of support given the industry by the Canadian government. He believed the government was sacrificing the interests of the farmer to the manufacturer and thought the ranchers should demand better support.

Senator Talbot congratulated the people of Central Alberta on their district. He favored the raising of better class cattle buyers into better class products to get more for them, advocated the appointment of a Live Stock Commissioner by the government. He spoke of what the government had done to assist the rancher by aiding the distribution of better bred stock, establishing creameries, stock grading schools, farmer's institutes, etc.

McMullen, on behalf of the C. P. R., said the C. P. R. were willing and anxious to remedy any real grievances the stock men had in shipping, but protested against false statements being made without investigation. He believed if they got together often to discuss these matters it would be better for all parties concerned.

Before adjournment for lunch Frank Whiteside on behalf of the association presented Mr. and Mrs. Root with a handsome clock as an appreciation of their efforts to make the work a success. Mr. and Mrs. Root replied feebly.

S. S. Brogan representing a Liverpool shipping agent, spoke of the Liverpool markets. He believed contrary to Senator Talbot that a large percentage of Alberta cattle were suitable for export.

S. B. Goodall of Union Stock Yards, Chicago, gave an interesting address on the immense amount of stock handled there and how prices were likely to keep high this summer.

Mr. Geddis, of Farm and Ranch Review, and W. Goodson of the Stettler Independent, spoke on behalf of the press.

Mr. Puller, M. P. P. spoke of the power the government was doing and asked the ranchers to attend the meetings of the beef commission prepared to give evidence as to conditions.

Mr. Greig, assistant live stock commissioner, gave a short address.

The business meeting was held in the evening. The following of officers were elected for the ensuing year.

THE BUSIEST DAY we ever had in our STORE

The new system is an IMMENSE SUCCESS—has been a success from the start—so much so that we have now to increase our staff at once—so much so that we have to apologize to some of our customers for slight mistakes and the hurried attention unavoidable in such a crush of customers.

Our inadequate accommodation cannot well be improved until our new building is completed, but we hope that increased assistance, and a quicker and improved method of filling your orders and taking produce, will place us in a position to handle the rush of business promptly and smoothly.

Our Customers are Our best advertisers, and we are pleased at the indisputable proofs we have that they appreciate our efforts to increase their purchasing power by securing the best markets for their produce and paying them the highest price therefor, and that they appreciate the reduced cost of living which is the result of our CASH PRICES. FEMALE INEBRIATES

Careful observers of social conditions in both the upper and the lower classes of our society have noted of late decided increase in the addiction to alcoholic liquors on the part of the lower social classes relating to the number and age of women convicted of drunkenness. The old ideas of the exclusion of the female from the commission of the evil, for only the degradation of the temperate fall into the hands of the police. Moreover, though a woman is convicted of being drunk, unless she has been intemperate, she is easily a highly intemperate man. The second danger is notorious that a drunken woman reclaimed only with the greatest difficulty, for she has all but unsexed herself. The inebriated woman injures her reputation, the intemperate man not.

Secret Drinking.

Many women take to secret drinking—the bane of womanhood—by reason of the fact that the men of the family soften the sorrow which is the lot of so many women or to decide to do nothing about the future which is the result of their own carelessness in harassing many of the weaker sex. It is surely an evil sign of the times when the women of the present are less and less of the future, for what are called "spiteful" women are the only girls making small payments to account for their Christmas eve and cakes to be passed in spite of wine and then to be increased.

Increased facilities for drinking at the increasing intemperance among the women of the country is a fact of greater extent than was formerly the case; women's club afford every opportunity for the use of wine and liquor in potent liquors; some of the best stores and mammoth drapery establishments have licensed refreshment rooms and restaurants.

buffets continue to multiply, while the pastry cook with a wine license very much in evidence in every residential district. A woman in a good position in life may be intemperate to a degree without ever having recourse to the ordinary public house. It is not pretended that all the places enumerated above have spirit licenses, but intemperance is rampant and she or even in bottled ale is almost equally destructive to health.

Deplorable Effect.

Intemperance has a deplorable effect on the nervous system of women whom it tends rapidly to degrade morally as well as physically, unfitting them for those duties and responsibilities which should be the first care the women of every race. Intemperance among men is a far more serious matter, since in their case the future of the nation hangs in the balance. Intemperance among women is incompatible with the duties of a wife and mother, and if they are unaffected by a bad heredity, must be affected by evil parents. The drunken mother is regarded as a curse to her family and a menace to the community. She is incapable of understanding and tolerant of moderate drinking on the male side looks upon a drunkard with a mixture of hatred and loathing that are almost instinctive.

Powerful Hateful Poisons.

Among the most powerful and dangerous "false" in unimaginable quantities, and which are used by the millions of those with whom we can afford to be friendly and certainly the most destructive to the human system, are the various and those deleterious essential oils so necessary to mask the taste of the cheap liquors. These oils are so potent that it could not be swallowed in its natural state. These essential oils are so potent that a few drops of them on one's finger, if taken in sufficiently large doses and over a sufficient period of time, will produce a violent and fatal disease. The queer containing them like their dangerous liquor to the war.

And the future of our women kind lies in the fact that all women ion, and once it becomes no longer the fashion for women to drink free of potent liquors at dinners, dances and other convivial assemblies interperance among them will receive check. But against the pet vice secret drinking the only remedy is the teaching of temperance and hygiene.—London Chronicle.

Dust on the Ocean.

To talk of a "dusty" ocean high

Way down there, in the dark, the dust is thick and dense. Every man is a detective here. Every man is familiar with ships knows that no matter how carefully the decks are swept, there is in the end a certain quantity of dust will collect by the fall. You say "But the modern steamers burn such quantities of coal a day, easily accounts for such a deposit." True, but the records of a recent voyage of a sailing vessel show that in the course of a few days twenty-four barrels of dust were swept from the decks. The captain was a man of the most accurate and careful observations, but could not solve the mystery. Some doubt, comes from the wear and the dirt of the rigging, but that accounts for only a small portion. And the mystery, like a cork, would not float. The answer was found in this sea dust. Where does it come from?

The Leading Store has secured the services of Miss M. E. Traver of Toronto, to fill the position of head dressmaker, formerly held by Miss Newn, who has resigned.
Miss Traver comes to Lacombe with the highest recommendation from some of Toronto's largest establishments, and the patrons of the Leading Store may look for the same high class work which has made the dressmaking department so successful under Miss Newn's management.

It will be remembered that Constable Webster killed two dogs with four shots a short time ago.
We have figured the thing up and find that at that rate it would take him sixteen years, three months and fourteen days to kill all the dogs around Lacombe. In doing so he would use forty-one tons of ammunition, without the weight of the primers. The dogs when killed, would make a pile four times as high as the Merchants Bank, and if laid end to end would reach from Lacombe to Alia with two dogs to spare. Their skins would make a pair of gloves for every man, woman and child in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, besides three pairs of shoes and a baseball mitt. If you don't believe it we will show you the figures.

Lacombe ball team again showed their superiority last Friday evening by beating the Bulltown boys by seventeen to nine. The Bull-town players never seemed quite at home with C. Danier's deceiving deliveries, and McLean made an excellent catcher. In fact almost the whole of the home team played good ball. For the visitors Reister and Ziehl were most conspicuous with the bat and Pinotti pitched fairly well, but soon broke down and Fritzell had to relieve him. The game only lasted 7 innings and some of the Bulltown boys did not seem to like it being brought to a close so soon, but it was unnecessary to prolong the game and Lacombe was too far ahead to be passed by their opponents. There was quite a number of spectators present who seemed to enjoy the game immensely.

The new uniform for the Obid of Lacombe's police force has at last arrived, and Mr. Webster now looks red, or as we heard one young lady observe, too red for anything. He will have to be careful and not get too hot, as the suit is a credit to the town and the carpenter who built it. It is composed of navy blue cloth with seams nicely feather-stitched, and is ornamented with real brass buttons, secured at great expense from Morris & Taylor. He will also carry a club. His new hat, a lovely creation from Fred Clayton's emporium, becomes his manly beauty, while his collar and tie are triumphs of the milliner's art.

(From we'll get even on that dollar.

It has been frequently suggested and the suggestion is a good one, for every farmer to place his name and the name of his farm on his road-gate. Not only would people driving to a place more easily find it, but it would add more pleasure and interest to people driving from place to place. This last result would have special effect with regard to well kept and pretty houses. An observing person will seldom pass a beautiful farm without desiring to know who is its enterprising owner.

There must be some life in the boy, or he will not rise under any circumstances until the day appointed for the resurrection of the dead. If he starts out in life as a failure he will and as one unless he gets thoroughly awakened up in some way. Give every boy and girl a fair chance and reasonable encouragement, and do not condemn them even because of a large degree of downright stupidity for many so-called good-for-nothing boys, blockheads, numskulls, dullards, or dunces, were only boys out of their place, round boys forced into square holes.

We have among us a few "fast" young men who are always spoken of as "good fellows," and in some respects they are; but it is well to remember that they are not "good fellows" who indulge in pleasure at the expense of what their duty demands of them. There is no lack of time for pleasure and there are ways of enjoyment for every one; but in the long run the young man will find it neither pleasure nor profitable to win admiration for companionable qualities from the idle, the dissolute and the vicious. There is nothing new in all this—it is an old, old story—yet every day young men are seen going to the bad through the allurements of so-called good-fellowship, and the public teacher cannot too often or too strongly admonish the youth of the folly of such a course.

Jack Frost Can't Win.

If ever there was an unassisted Nature a forced growth, we have it at the present time. The earth is like a hotbed and the reaching upward of the wheat is almost discernable. The frequent light showers and the warm sunshine are ideal conditions for a late sown crop and the wheat is thus making wonderful headway. If the farmers controlled the weather they could not have agreed on a finer weather program.

Some say that anticipating loss rain in June they have sown a half bushel more per acre, so that the crop would ripen quicker, and while a little more difficult to harvest would ensure a good yield.
The present conditions indicate a heavy crop of straw and later maturity, while the yield probability has increased about twenty percent. This apprehension, however, about a later harvest is only a conjecture, but it goes to show that the farmers' minds are hardly less restless than the growing wheat itself. Yet it is not doubt but mere speculation.

The new corner wonders, and the old timer prophecies, and inspires the former with confidence for the latter has lived through the days when only faith in the future kept him in the country.

Looking at the crops at present, however, and betting on the race between the frost and the wheat, the latter is selling favorite, and from their place at the quarter
Jack Frost can't win.

Real Estate Man Guilty.

J. J. Curry, a real estate man of Calgary, was found guilty of misappropriating funds and was let off on suspended sentence. Judge Stuart, in speaking of the prisoner said: "I think that he has done what dozens of people are doing right along, who imagine that they are respectable men, but who would be liable to punishment if they were caught.

"Numbers of real estate men receive money in trust and convert it to their own use, in the hope that they will be able to put it up. It would be setting a bad example if I acquitted the prisoner, and would tend to encourage others in this kind of thing."

MILTON.

Fine weather and prospects for crops are good in this district.
Mr. Burrows has the fence nearly completed around his new farm which puts the travel on the regular road allowances.

About ten families and Miss Kelly, our teacher, went on a picnic and fishing tour to Gull Lake last Tuesday. A fine time and great results in catching fish is reported.

Mr. R. M. Whitcomb's mother from Red Deer is here making him a visit.

The McKenzie and Henry wedding evening of June 6th, was well celebrated at the home of William McKenzie, and later by the Milton and Fairview boys at Mr. Henry's.
Rice being scarce, tin pens and cow bells were substituted, which brought Ray to the door, where congratulations and cigars were indulged in.

Mr. Frank Wolf has gone to improve his homestead east of Stettler.

Mr. Fawcett is busy now, fencing his new farm, Crescent Hill.

No analysis of smoking tobacco has been made by the state food department. An item has been going the rounds of the state press telling of astonishing results from such an examination. Well known brands of "smoking" were found to consist mostly of brown paper, and one to be all chopped straw soaked in tobacco juice.
Some state chemist may have made such an analysis, but it was not Minnesota's. The Minnesota dairy and food department does not classify tobacco as a food.
